

MANCHESTER MEDICAL SOCIETY

Section of Anaesthesia

The first meeting for the Section of Anaesthesia of the Manchester Medical Society for the 2006/2007 session was the Presidential Address. The meeting took place on Thursday 12th October 2006 at 7 pm in the Manchester Dental Education Centre (MANDEC), University of Manchester.

Prior to the Presidential Address, the Annual General Meeting took place. Formal election of New Office-bearers and Members of Council for 2006/2007 were unanimously accepted as follows: -

President Elect
Members of Council

Deborah Mary Nolan
Brenda Joyce Muriel Bowles
Abdul Ghaaliq Lalkhen

Dr Meadows thanked members and guests for their support throughout her term of office and then presented Dr M D Trask (Consultant Anaesthetist, Salford Royal Hospitals NHS Trust) with the Presidential Medallion. Dr Trask commended Dr Meadows for her successful year and then welcomed Professor Jim Morris, President of the Society, to the meeting.

He then commenced his Presidential Address as follows:-

“The right stuff”

Dr Trask’s talk was well received and stimulated many questions. He discussed the influences on his career development and the changes that have occurred in neurosurgery and anaesthesia over the years.

Nearly one hundred members and guests showed their appreciation of the lecture by way of prolonged applause.

The Presidential Dinner was, as usual, well attended and some forty members and guests socialized in the Café Muse, Manchester Museum, Oxford Road.
