

I am a final year medical student based at Wythenshawe. As I've progressed through my studies, I have developed a growing appreciation for the many facets of radiology and the various skills needed. Through some fantastic mentors, I have had the chance to explore and observe these aspects of radiology, and am eager to continue learning about the specialty. I hope to share these positive experiences with fellow students, and to improve student exposure and understanding about radiology.